REPORTS OF THE SOUTHERN

THE FLOODS OF THE SOUTH
A Picture of Unparalleled Ruin and Destruction.

Boston, June 12.—Henry G. Crowell, who visited New Orleans as commissioner for the purpose of water-finding what use was being made of the funds contributed by citizens of Boston, and what further assistance, if any, was necessary to alleviate the necessities of the sufferers, made a report to-day to the mayor and citizens at a meeting in the City Hall.

After describing in terms of high praise the method by which the relief was distributed, Mr. Crowell says of the extent of the inundation: "The calamity in extent and ruinous consequences is one of the greatest that has occurred from fire, storm or flood on this continent since the present century. To see for myself the nature of the great inundation I went to Brashear, eighty miles west of New Orleans, the last twenty-three miles through an unbroken flood, varying in depth from three to six feet, which flows from the distant swamps on the Mississippi and devastates an immense region."

I also went up the Mississippi about two hundred miles to Port Hudson, in order to witness the passage of the vast volume of water rushing through several crevasses, saying in words from five hundred to a thousand feet, and in depth from seven to twelve feet, rushing like a great sea, and every object in its path was swept away, until it spread like a vast fan over the neighboring country.

What I saw gave me a realizing sense of the magnitude and destructiveness of the great flood, and of the reason why the suffering, destitution and danger caused by it must continue for a long time. It is estimated by those who are familiar with previous floods in that State that from four to six feet of water, rising above the water level, would submerge the larger portion of the overflooded district to enable the people to plant, and that from six to ten feet of water would submerge the entire district.

Has been constructed over the water, on the sea-front of the Hotel, having a suspension floor 20 by 25 feet over it, 40 feet high, and supported by the Ball Room is the most desirable place for dancing.

A First-Class Bar, Billiard Room, Bowling Alley, and a Shooting Gallery, is attached to the Hotel.

HILLER AND HON

We have, recently, seen an attempt at very sharp legislation in Congress. A bill was reported to the Judiciary Committee of the House, by General Hiller, chairman of the Committee, and the bill was passed by the House without any discussion, and without being read or any of its provisions being known.

After it was passed, it was supposed to be a mere common-place bill for fixing the time for holding the court to suit the convenience of judges and lawyers, and to provide for public improvements.

After it was passed, it was supposed to be a mere common-place bill for fixing the time for holding the court to suit the convenience of judges and lawyers, and to provide for public improvements.

Upon examination, it was found that one section in effect repealed the District Courts of the fourth circuit in most of their jurisdictions, and another paid the traveling expenses of the judges of the fourth circuit—an enactment, allowed to no other circuit judge. The attention of the House Judiciary Committee, being called to the subject, a special meeting of the committee was held, when the chairman of the committee had authority to report such a bill, and it was moved that the chairman be directed to take steps for recalling the bill from the Senate. The chairman (Hiller) stated that every word of the bill was written by Judge J. L. Hudson, of the fourth judicial circuit of the United States, and that he offered it at Judge Rogers' request and solicitation. If we are correctly informed, he said he offered the bill without reading it, but he claimed that he did have authority for reporting it. He hoped the committee would not require him to call for its return to the Senate. It was unnecessary. The exposure made of its contents had killed it, it was now dead.

He was as much opposed to it as any one. But the committee insisted that the bill should move for its recall, and it was so ordered. The development is satisfactory in more respects than one. Some will be struck with the evident efforts of our rapid advance to a higher and purer state of public morals.

And the statement, of the chairman of the committee, taken for true that the bill was prepared by the judge for his own special behoof, and that the bill was so dirty that the chairman himself, when he found out what it was, washed his hands of it—it must be confessed to be the most significant of compliments to the advanced judiciary of this advanced era.—Richmond Whig.

A NEWSBOY'S RISE.
The St. Louis Times publishes the following, in a report of an interview with James H. McKiever, the well-known theatrical manager, of Chicago.

He said he had been the first newsboy who had ever sold papers in St. Louis, in 1837 or 1838, he then a lad of thirteen, was employed by the office of the St. Louis Gazette, a paper published by a "typo" named Jerry Allen and his brother.

He was ordered one day with a bunch of papers under his arm, to sell Gazette, and was instructed to go down First street to the depot, and say to every man he met:

"Buy a paper, sir." He tried this, and, when at the depot, then the great business center of the city, he came to a knot of gentlemen, and put the words to them. "Buy a paper, sir." "Buy 1-1" said one of the gentlemen, and young McKiever went back to the office, discouraged and almost crying at the rebuff.

His employers, however, sent him out again, and he succeeded, by perseverance, in doing a pretty fair business. Subsequently he went into the Republican office, where he rolled, while George Kump, now principal proprietor of that great paper, "pulled press."

In those days the Republican was run by handpower. A year or two later he learned to set type, and a year or two later still, he entered the theatrical profession under the tutelage of J. J. Field, stage manager of the old St. Louis theatre. Mr. Field then being also editor of the Reveille newspaper.

From that time Mr. McKiever steadily rose, till now he has hardly a superior as a theatrical manager on the continent.

CIVIL RIGHTS. We clip the following from the Wilmington Journal:

A conversation substantially as follows was overheard between a couple of darkeys yesterday:

"Say, Bill, when dis civil rights done passed for Congress, do you know what I gwine to do?"

"No, Sam? what you gwine to do?"

"I gwine to go down to de Parson's House and take dinner with de man table and de white folks. And dea, I'll set out in front and smoke my cigar jus' as big as any 'em."

"Gway, gway. If you temple to eat dinner at de Parson's House I bet you eat supper with 'em."

Cremator, age 62, ma, ma, Johnny's got the sun and is spilling pa's ashes over the back. "O, what a naughty Johnny! Get the father's dust, and sweep your poor father right up!"

SINBAD OUTDOING

The author of "Sinbad the Sailor's" Adventures must resign his laurels. One W. H. Stokes has been exploring a recently discovered cave near "The Grove," San Diego county, California, and writes to the Sutter (Greek) Independent, an account of his investigations. Mr. Stokes' notes for the exact truth of his narrative in every particular, and we doubt not the reader will readily credit it from the following specimen description of one of the chambers the party entered:

After hurrying for a mile and a quarter through the underground passage, Stokes and his party came to a large chamber, the walls of which were not limestone, but a yellowish-brown and black iron ore.

This chamber beats Sinbad's, magnetic mountain, which drew all the nails from his ship, and thus caused it to fall to pieces, all hollow. Listen to Mr. Stokes:

"Upon entering this chamber we noticed a most peculiar disturbance of the magnet, the needle constantly vibrating from side to side, and frequently whirling around for a minute at a time with a velocity which rendered it invisible. We also experienced a singular sensation, a sort of chill appearing to commence at the back of the neck and extending to the very tips of our fingers and toes. As we advanced in this chamber we found these singular sensations to increase in intensity until it became almost unbearable. We ventured on still further, however, though it became evident that we could not long remain in this mysterious place. I omitted to mention that the walls and floors of this chamber, especially particular rocks there contained, were highly magnetic, and became more so the farther we advanced toward the north. One of the party who carried a hatchet had it suddenly arrested from him by a magnetic rock near which he passed, and the combined strength of four of us was insufficient to detach it. A pocket knife, which accidentally dropped to the floor, had to remain there, none of the party having sufficient strength in his fingers to pick it up. Mason, who had put on for the occasion a pair of miner's boots, the soles of which were filled with nails, could walk with difficulty, and, happening to step upon a portion of the floor unusually magnetic, found himself suddenly affixed thereto, and unable to move. He was compelled to withdraw his feet from his boots and leave them there, tearing up his coat and wrapping the pieces around his feet to protect them from being cut by the rocks. We had remained in this chamber about ten minutes, when suddenly the chilling sensation began to increase, the feeling being as if a cold and piercing wind was blowing upon us, and becoming each moment more intensely cold. We hastily retreated and soon reached, feeling more dead than alive, the large chamber containing the hot spring. We then retraced our steps along the time, and in a couple of hours emerged from the cave."

ON THE EDGE OF DEATH.
On Monday morning a painter named Wm. McCullough, who was at work on the Second Sister Island bridge, above Niagara Falls, by some mischance, fell into the raging current beneath. The water at this point rushes and surges along toward the cataract, three-quarters of a mile below, with irresistible force. All along the stream, down the bank of the American fall, the bed of the river is thickly studded with huge boulders, around and over which the current eddies and boils as it flies at the whirlpool.

It was down this frightful channel that the unfortunate man was swept with the velocity of a whirlwind. His doom appeared to be sealed, for nothing short of a miracle could rescue him from the clutches of the angry water.

The fearful plunge over the falls below, as seemed to many, he was doomed to meet long before reaching the cataract, but did not. Neither did he go over the falls. In a short time after falling from the bridge he was seen standing erect upon a rock that lifted itself above the water in the rapids. Here he appeared to himself from human aid as before, for it was almost certain death to go to his rescue. But a hero was found equal to the emergency, and amid the wildest excitement among the throng who now lined the shore, preparations for his rescue were made. A rope was securely fastened to the bridge, and a distance above, and Thomas Connelley, who had volunteered for the hazardous undertaking, succeeded in reaching the place where Mr. McCullough was standing. He was rescued, and Mr. McCullough was safely rescued.

A liberal-minded youngster was up as a visitor of the family, who, standing by on his knee, and with a "What a fine fellow!" "I think there's money in him, I do," which promptly responded the child, "I know there is, for I swallowed a cent when I was at grandma's the other day."

Hereon't you mistake the few words blantly asked a Sunday Chesterfield for a stranger as he entered it. "I beg your pardon," replied the individual, rising to go out. "I fear I have; I thought it was a Christian's."

OLD LOVE REKINDLED—A WASHINGTON ROMANCE

From the Cincinnati Commercial.

The wedding was that of Mr. Conger, member of Congress from Michigan, with Mrs. Sibley, widow of Major Sibley, United States army. She was Miss Humphreys, daughter of Judge Humphreys of the Supreme Court of the State of Ohio, and twenty-seven years ago was affianced to Mr. Conger, then a handsome blooming youth. They quarrelled and parted. In six months the quarrel was forgotten, and they were again engaged. Miss Humphreys was pretty, a belle and a flirt. Her flirting propensities did not please Mr. Conger, and he remonstrated with her, asking a high-spirited girl, who again and finally broke the engagement, telling him she would never marry him.

He left the State. She married and he married. Major Sibley lived twelve years. There were no children, and at his death she went abroad. Mrs. Conger lived a few years and left three children. In October weary of Kansas life, Mrs. Sibley determined to return to her home in Cincinnati. Arriving in New York, it occurred to her to come to Washington for a few weeks. Oh, women, how mysterious are the ways! One day, time hanging wearily on her hands she wandered (?) to Congress, of course, never dreaming that in this august body sat her affinity! An hour passed, the debates were prosy and tedious. So, gathering her wraps about her, she prepared to leave the gallery, when there was a tap on her shoulder. Turning, who did she behold but the lover of her youth, the old Mr. Conger.

After commonplace greeting in an agitated voice, she made the inquiry, "I suppose your family are with you?" "Did you not know that my wife was dead?" "What a tragedy that she should die!" They chatted sometimes, and on leaving she said, "I am at the Arlington; will you come and see me?" Irritation on his part, blushing on hers, and then in a low voice replied Conger, "I will if you take time. I will," she answered, and she withdrew.

The engagement was very brief, and the happy train were united last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. The bride wore a pearl colored satin, brocade, with diamond ornaments, and looked very well, albeit she could not look sentimental, for she is very young, and weighs about one hundred and thirty-five pounds.

A pair of zebras have been trained and broken to harness in Paris.

A Brooklyn paper characterizes the hen as the most popular of females as she is engaged for every set.

If forty rods make one rod, how many will make one peck? If twelve dozen make a gross, how many will make a grocer's?

Kissing your sweetheart, says a trifling young man, is like eating out with a fork; it takes a long time to get enough.

A woman observing on the door of a house the names of two physicians, remarked that it put him in mind of a double barrel gun; if one missed the other would be sure to kill.

A Scotchman went to a lawyer once for advice, and detailed the circumstances of the case. "Have you told me the facts precisely as they occurred?" asked the lawyer. "O yes, sir," replied the man, "about it best to tell you the plain truth. No, I can put the lies into it myself."

An affected young lady, on being asked, in a large company, if she had read Shakespeare, assumed a look of astonishment and replied: "Read Shakespeare? Of course I have; I read it when it first came out."

A gentleman inquired of a carpenter's boy: "My lad, when will you tell me you have an hand be done?" "I can't tell, sir," replied the honest boy, "it's a day job, and it will depend upon how soon the governor has another order."

Thanky tells us of an Irish woman begging alms from him, who, when she saw him put his hand in his pocket, cried out, may the blessing of God follow you all your life—but when he pulled out on his hand, she immediately added, and never forgive me.

Out of ninety-nine aspirants for military honors at West Point, thirty-three were sent back to school last week because they could not write, spell, or cipher, or were too familiar with maps or geography. This colored candidate failed, in writing.

Quail and his wife had a bit of contention the other day. "I own that you have more brilliancy than I," said the woman; "but I have the better judgment." "Yes," said Quail, "your chance in marriage is better than mine."

The several dead soundings taken in the neighborhood of Bermuda prove it to be a solitary peak rising abruptly from a base only 120 miles in diameter. The deep water within sixty miles of the land, giving no indication whatever of its existence, shows the fallacy of supposing that a deep sounding tends to disprove the existence of a neighboring shoal.

The wheat harvest has begun in various portions of the county. The outlook as to the crop very much, but as the wheat is somewhat injured by the winter, and as it has not escaped the ravages of the black rust, it is safe to say the crop will be above the average of the past four or five years.

Marriages.
We learn that in the Flat River section planters very scarce, and many that have been cut have perished from the heat. About Cedar Grove and Prospect Hill, the accounts are rather more favorable. As a general thing, the present outlook is discouraging to the planter.

Hot Weather.
Last week was the hottest remembered in this section for years so early in the month of June. On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday the mercury in the shade at 3 p. m. ranged from 95 to 98. The nights here however are always pleasant and restorative.

Conservatorial Nominations.
The Convention at Prospect Hill, the proceedings of which are published, were exceedingly harmonious, and satisfactory concluded. There will be no question of the triumphant election of the nominees.

The radicals by all sorts of emotional ruses, are endeavoring to prevent discord and dissension among the Conservatives. We can tell these gentlemen their game is understood. The Conservatives are not going to let Orange go. The very fact of rumored defection from our ranks will only serve the party to sterner work. It has learned a lesson from the enemy's books, and knows how to make them odious.

Col. Pool's "Our Living and our Dead" is hereafter to be published in Raleigh as a semi-monthly.

The Henderson Recorder says Capt Joe Davis will open the campaign at Nashville on the 17th inst.

The Million Chronicle says that a little negro girl, 10 years old, because she was homesick and not allowed to go home, set fire to the old State Bank, and almost burned the town with the dread of disastrous conflagration. The fire was speedily extinguished. The Chronicle very wisely suggests the use of a little hanging.

The Chronicle says Mr. K. Rowman of Person County, aged 87 years, ploughed and planted all his corn ground this spring, and commends his example to the lazy young men around. There are some here in Hillsboro who might take the hint.

DECEASED.
For July is out and handsome annual. The fashion plates show some novelties in styles which are pleasing to the eye and suggest the idea of fitness of things.

The dresses are less voluminous than they have been. The suggestion of over loading with lace and trim, some months the prevailing style, and which, however light and airy, is suggestive of oppression in this hot weather.

We have the following notice for the consideration of the ladies, who however are always pleased with it.

Young America for July is also to hand and is as good as usual.

At a regular meeting of Eagle Lodge No. 71 A. F. & A. M. held in their hall on Friday evening the 6th of June 1874, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas in the providence of an almighty God, our aged and beloved Bro Burroughs Cheek has been removed from time that bourne from which no traveler returns.

Resolved that in his death our mystic brother hath sustained a loss and suffered a bereavement which time alone and He, who doth all things well, can repair.

Resolved, that we tender to his bereaved family in this their sad affliction.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the bereaved family, and the Hillsboro Recorder be requested to publish the same.

J. M. BLACKWOOD, Sec. June 5th 1874.

The Venerable Archdeacon Boyd, of Dunelm, Canada East, says that he suffered from dyspepsia more than twenty-five years, but that three weeks use of the Peruvian Syrup (an Iron tonic) has benefited him so wonderfully that he can hardly persuade himself of the reality, and people who know him are astonished at the change.

WILMINGTON.

The New York Times, weighing 35 pounds was brought from New York to Hillsboro on Tuesday, June 10th, 1874.

W. H. Bailey is a candidate for the Judgeship in the 6th District. Judge Cloutier is in charge. (The conservative candidate in that District is Thomas J. Wilson.)

The News says there were a number of suicides on Wednesday morning. A Penitentiary convict employed in the quarry. None had proved fatal.

The Crescent says, a negro man was committed to jail in Raleigh on Tuesday, who killed his wife near Apex, by striking her on the head with a hoe, because she had refused to mend his breeches. The breach he made will be mended with hemp.

The Fayetteville Gazette says that a dinner was given in Raleigh, in connection with a radical gathering, at which white and black eat together. Sheriff McManis was master of ceremonies, and marshaled the party into dinner, one white and one black, to the number of twenty at a time, all the table could accommodate.

Resolved, wasn't it?

It is said a daily train to run between Raleigh and Salem will be put on the N. C. R. R. in a short time. It will make the trip both ways in daylight.

If the fares are put low, it will prove popular and profitable. Try two cents a mile.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

Almost Every Case Cured with PAIN-KILLER.

Dear Sir: During a residence of some ten years in China, as a missionary, I found your Pain-Killer a most valuable remedy for that fearful scourge the Cholera.

In administering the medicine I found it most effective to give a teaspoonful of Pain-Killer in a glass of water, sweetened with sugar, and after about fifteen minutes, begin to give about a tablespoonful of the same mixture every few minutes until relief was obtained. Apply the plaster to the extremities. Rub the stomach with the Pain-Killer, and rub the limbs briskly. Of those who took the Cholera, and took the medicine faithfully, in the way stated above, eight out of ten recovered.

Rev. Mr. T. L. FORD, Missionary to China.

Dear Sir: During a long residence in China I have used your valuable Pain-Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the summer of 1862 and 1863, while residing in Shanghai, I administered it to several cases of cholera, and with the best results. I have since used it in many cases of cholera, and with the same success. I have since used it in many cases of cholera, and with the same success.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased Brother, and that they be published in the Hillsboro Recorder.
